1. What Are Cookies?

Cookies are small data files that are placed on your device and set by us or by third parties when you visit a website or other online service. In addition to cookies, we may use other technologies that are similar in function, such as pixels, local or web storage, and embedded scripts.

- Pixels: Also called web beacons, or “clear gifs,” and single-pixel tags/gifs, or web tags, are tiny graphics with a unique identifier placed on a website or in an email that gathers information about your interaction with that website or email. Because of their small size, they are not visible. Pixels can also enable us and third parties to place cookies on your browser.
- Local or Web Storage: Local or web storage refers to other places on a browser or device where information can be stored. It includes both your own device storage and browser cache.
- Embedded Scripts: An embedded script is a programming code that is designed to collect information about your interactions with the Services, such as the links you click. The code is temporarily downloaded onto your device, is active only while you are connected to the Services and is deactivated or deleted after you are no longer connected.

We use the term “Cookie” throughout this Privacy Policy to cover all these technologies.

You can find more information about cookies at: www.allaboutcookies.org.

2. Types of Cookies

Cookies are often described by who created and placed them and how long they last. Types of Cookies generally include the following:

- First-Party Cookies and Third-Party Cookies
  - First-party Cookies: These are Cookies set by the publisher of the website or online service you are visiting. First-party Cookies may be set either by us or by a service provider at our request.
  - Third-party Cookies: These are Cookies that are set by a party other than the publisher of the website you are visiting.

We, our service providers, and/or agents acting on our behalf, use the following persistent and session Cookies (which may be first-party or third-party Cookies) on the Services:

- Strictly Necessary or Essential Cookies: These Cookies are essential because they enable the Services to work properly, and they cannot be disabled. Without these Cookies,

For example, these Cookies can be used to remember your name or preferences on the Services. We do not use functional Cookies for online advertising. While these Cookies can be disabled, this may result in less functionality during your use of the Services. For example, we use these Cookies to:
  - Provide you a personalized experience, such as remembering how you have customized the Services;
  - Remember the information that you fill in when performing certain activities on the Services; and
  - Store your preferences such as language and location.
- Performance or Analytics Cookies: These Cookies help us understand how the Services are being accessed, used, or are performing. These performance or analytics Cookies may collect information about the content you view, what websites you visit immediately before and after visiting the Services, and your system and geographic information.   - First-Party Cookies: If you do not want Cookies placed on your device, you can adjust the setting of your Internet browser to reject some or all Cookies and to alert you when a Cookie is placed on your device. To do this, follow the instructions provided by your browser (usually located within the “Help,” “Tools,” or “Edit” settings). While adjusting your browser setting can prevent the future placement of Cookies, it does not remove existing persistent Cookies.
  - Third-Party Cookies: Browsers also allow you to block third-party Cookies using the steps described above for first-party Cookies.
- Preferences Tools: There are several services available that can assist you with managing your Cookie preferences, including industry groups, standards associations, and tools provided by the Cookie providers and social media sites. Please note that we have no affiliation with, and are not responsible for, third-party websites.
  - Global Privacy Control and Privacy plug-ins: You can block cookies used for interest-based ads by installing browser plugins like Privacy Badger, DuckDuckGo, Ghostery, or uBlock Origin and configuring them to block third-party cookies/trackers. For more information, please visit <https://globalprivacycontrol.org>.
  - Google Analytics: You may download the Google Analytics opt-out browser add-on at <https://tools.google.com/dlpage/gaoptout>.
  - Web Beacons and Pixels: You may avoid web beacons and pixels by disabling the functionality that allows remote images to load in your email account and refraining from clicking on any links in email messages.
